CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Through the results of the research, researcher found that the experience starts from preparation, selection, process and evaluation. In the preparation stage, students seek information through various sources, such as social media. The selection stage involves online tests as well as administrative challenges that are solved with various strategies. The process stage included adaptation to the new environment, communication challenges, and culture shock, which were overcome in various ways, such as learning about the local culture and establishing interactions. Evaluations showed that the experience provided many benefits, including improved mindset, self-confidence, social relationships, academic experience, and greater cultural insight.

Although there were some challenges faced, the experiences they gained were invaluable and enriched their lives, academically, socially and personally.
